

Alcudia and its surroundings

Looking at the map of Majorca, you can spot the two bays of Pollenca and Alcudia forming a „W“ right in the north. Your holiday house is located on the southern shores of the Bay of Pollenca, the upper one of the two bays. It only takes a few minutes from here to the historic centre of Alcudia. You will hardly find a place with more history in Majorca than Alcudia. The colony – back then known under the name Pollentia – was already founded in the year 70 BC by the Roman consul Caecilius Metellus Balearicus. The roman archaeological excavations are a must-see on your vacation in the north of the island.

In the past years, Alcudia and its suburban areas have increasingly been evolving into a culinary eldorado. Whether you are looking for simple cuisine or gourmet quality – offside the touristy spots you will find fabulous and freshly prepared food for every taste at reasonable prices. A regularly updated list of restaurant recommendations can be found in your welcome folder.

Maricel and Marisol are located only 2.6 km away from the hotspot of the Majorcan surfers‘ community, the shores of ‘Sa Marina’ between Alcudia and Puerto Pollenca. This is where the international kite- and windsurfing community is gathering to enjoy almost always perfect wind conditions. Several surf schools and equipment lenders can be found here, too.

It also takes only a few minutes by bicycle or car to get to Majorca’s longest sand beach between Puerto Alcudia and Can Picafort, which does not only offer fantastic swimming and tanning opportunities but also great sailing conditions. If you are interested in learning how to sail, we highly recommend the “Wind & Friends” sailing school (www.windfriends.com). You can find their brochure among other information in your welcome folder.

Just let us know what kind of holiday you are looking for and we will provide you with more customized recommendations – be it on sports, culture, food or clubbing.

Good news for bike-lovers: You are surrounded by numerous training facilities of some of Europe’s top cycling teams! And that is for a reason: The mountains surrounding the bays in the north of Majorca are hosting very demanding bike trails such as the one leading to Cap Formentor or to the mountain monastery of Llluc. For „easy riders“, there are of course also plenty of easier trails such as the picturesque biking route along the coast or through the Majorcan gardens to Pollenca.

By the way, we don’t have bicycles, but we can organise any kind of bikes (e.g. trekking bikes for a rental price of 60€ per week) for you if you let us know well in advance. Please don’t forget that there is an obligation to always wear helmets on the island.
